In your story on the city wants school site you stated, "that property is owned by the Campbell Union School District who declared it surplus almost two years ago. . ." Councilman Dean Chamberlin stated this property beongs to the grammar school board and "as of now we have no assurance it will be available at a price we can pay." My question is, where did the school district get their money to pay for the original site? Was it donated land? Who paid for the building and how? If any school tax money was used, why do we have to pay more tax money to buy something we paid for with tax money, whether it be school tax money or federal or state tax money. I believe the site should be turned over to the city and the funds available used to make the needed repairs so that the community can use it.

Editor's note: The school district business office is researching your questions now. That building was originally constructed in 1922 before there was such a thing as state school building funds. In the 1950's the district added onto the building borrowing from the state. That has since been repaid.

Personally, I feel that old Campbell grammar school property should be saved and made into an Old Town for Campbell. I feel it's too valuable to be used as a center. Who would use all that space anyway?

Local Businessman

I live on Lemoyne and our backyard borders on San Tomas Park. About two months ago an agreement was reached in which the City of San Jose was going to install an eight foot fence along the back property line of four homes on Lemoyne to help curb the problems of vandalism. That's become a gathering spot for juveniles late at night and there has been damage to shrubs, trees chopped down and even a post from one tree thrown into a swimming pool nearby causing $200 worth of damages. Just when are they going to put up the fence?

Concerned

Editor's note: After about six phone calls I finally got in touch with John Guisto, chief of park planning for San Jose Parks and Recreation. He's looking into the matter for you. Both the park people and San Jose police were in favor of erecting that 8-foot fence but several homeowners on Lemoyne objected. After holding neighborhood meetings it was decided that the fence would be installed along the backs of homes where the owners wanted it. The

Planning commissioner

No crime committed, DA says

CAMPBELL PLANNING Commissioner Peggy Pack has not committed a crime, a report by the District Attorney's office concluded last week. But the local planner should have disqualified herself from taking part in "certain decisions involving noise studies," according to a summary report issued by Police Chief Don Burr.

The three paragraph press release from the Chief's office marked the end of an eight week investigation into the official actions of Commissioner Pack.

An article in the Campbell PRESS on Sept. 29 reported the acoustical engineering firm headed by Peggy's husband, in which she is a corporate officer, had been performing the bulk of noise studies required by the Planning Department and Commission over the last two years. An accompanying editorial was sharply critical of that situation and concluded the commissioner should resign.

"IT SHOULD BE made quite clear that she (Pack) has not committed a crime and the disqualification is enforceable by injunctive relief in a civil proceeding only," the Chief's summary noted. "It appears that none of the decisions would have had a different outcome if she had abstained."

Civil proceedings can be brought by either private citizens or the District Attorney's office. And it appeared from the summary that the D.A.'s office didn't feel civil proceedings were warranted.

"Ms. Pack has been notified of this opinion and it is the judgement of the District Attorney's office that no further action is necessary," the chief noted.

The specifics of that report were not released, Burr said, because they involve personal information.

CONTACTED after the announcement last week, Commissioner Pack declined any further comment on the matter.

"I'm going to let the release be the final word on the subject," she said.

Monday night the City Council met with Chief Burr and Pack in executive session after their adjourned meeting.

A statement issued Tuesday morning by Mayor Bill Podgorsek for the Council reads: "The Campbell City Council accepts the report of the District Attorney and are pleased with the results."

A three station city

Cambrian fire station eyed

CAMPBELL WILL begin negotiations to lease the vacant Cambrian fire station to house a third 3-man engine company temporarily, city councilmen decided Monday night.

The city hopes to take over fire protection for southside area within its sphere of influence and provide the needed third engine for the city. Cost of personnel was estimated at $317,671 yearly but about $100,000 of that could be offset by property taxes in that new area.

In a three and a half hour adjourned council session, city officials tackled several knotty problems relating to fire protection service for Campbell and made five decisions. They are;

o To support the concept of a third fire station for the city. According to a report submitted by Fire Chief Gene Borden, the number of fire calls, including rescue, has climbed from 514 in 1965 to an estimated 2,000 for 1977, almost a 400 per cent increase. Assessed value in the city has soared from $38 to $132 billion. During this time the same two engine companies have been handling the calls.

THE RELOCATION of the Central ave. fire station to property on E. Campbell ave.-Michael drive across from the Pruneyard. The vote on this plan was 4-1 with Councilman Dean Chamberlin opposed.

o A study of possible funding sources for the Cambell-Michael drive station. Total estimated cost for land and construction is $700,000.

o Authorization to negotiate for the temporary use of the Cambrian fire station at Curtner and Bascom ave. with Cambrian school district trustees. Target date for that lease is July 1, 1978. Councilman Rusty Hammer opposed the motion.

o A resolution authorizing $8,400 out of general tax funds this year to make repairs on the Central ave. fire station.

Still to be decided is the proposal for a satellite station on Victor ave. at an estimated cost of $300,000 for building and land. At present the west side of town is being served through an auto aid agreement with the San Jose Fire Department.

TOTAL COST of the two new stations would be about $1 million, Borden estimated. But some of that cost could be offset by sale of the Dot ave. property acquired by the city from bond funds for a fire station. That sale could bring in about $156,000, Borden reported.

Possible funding sources are a bond election, pay-as-you- go out of city funds over several years and federal Public Works Bill funding. All three methods had proponents Monday night.

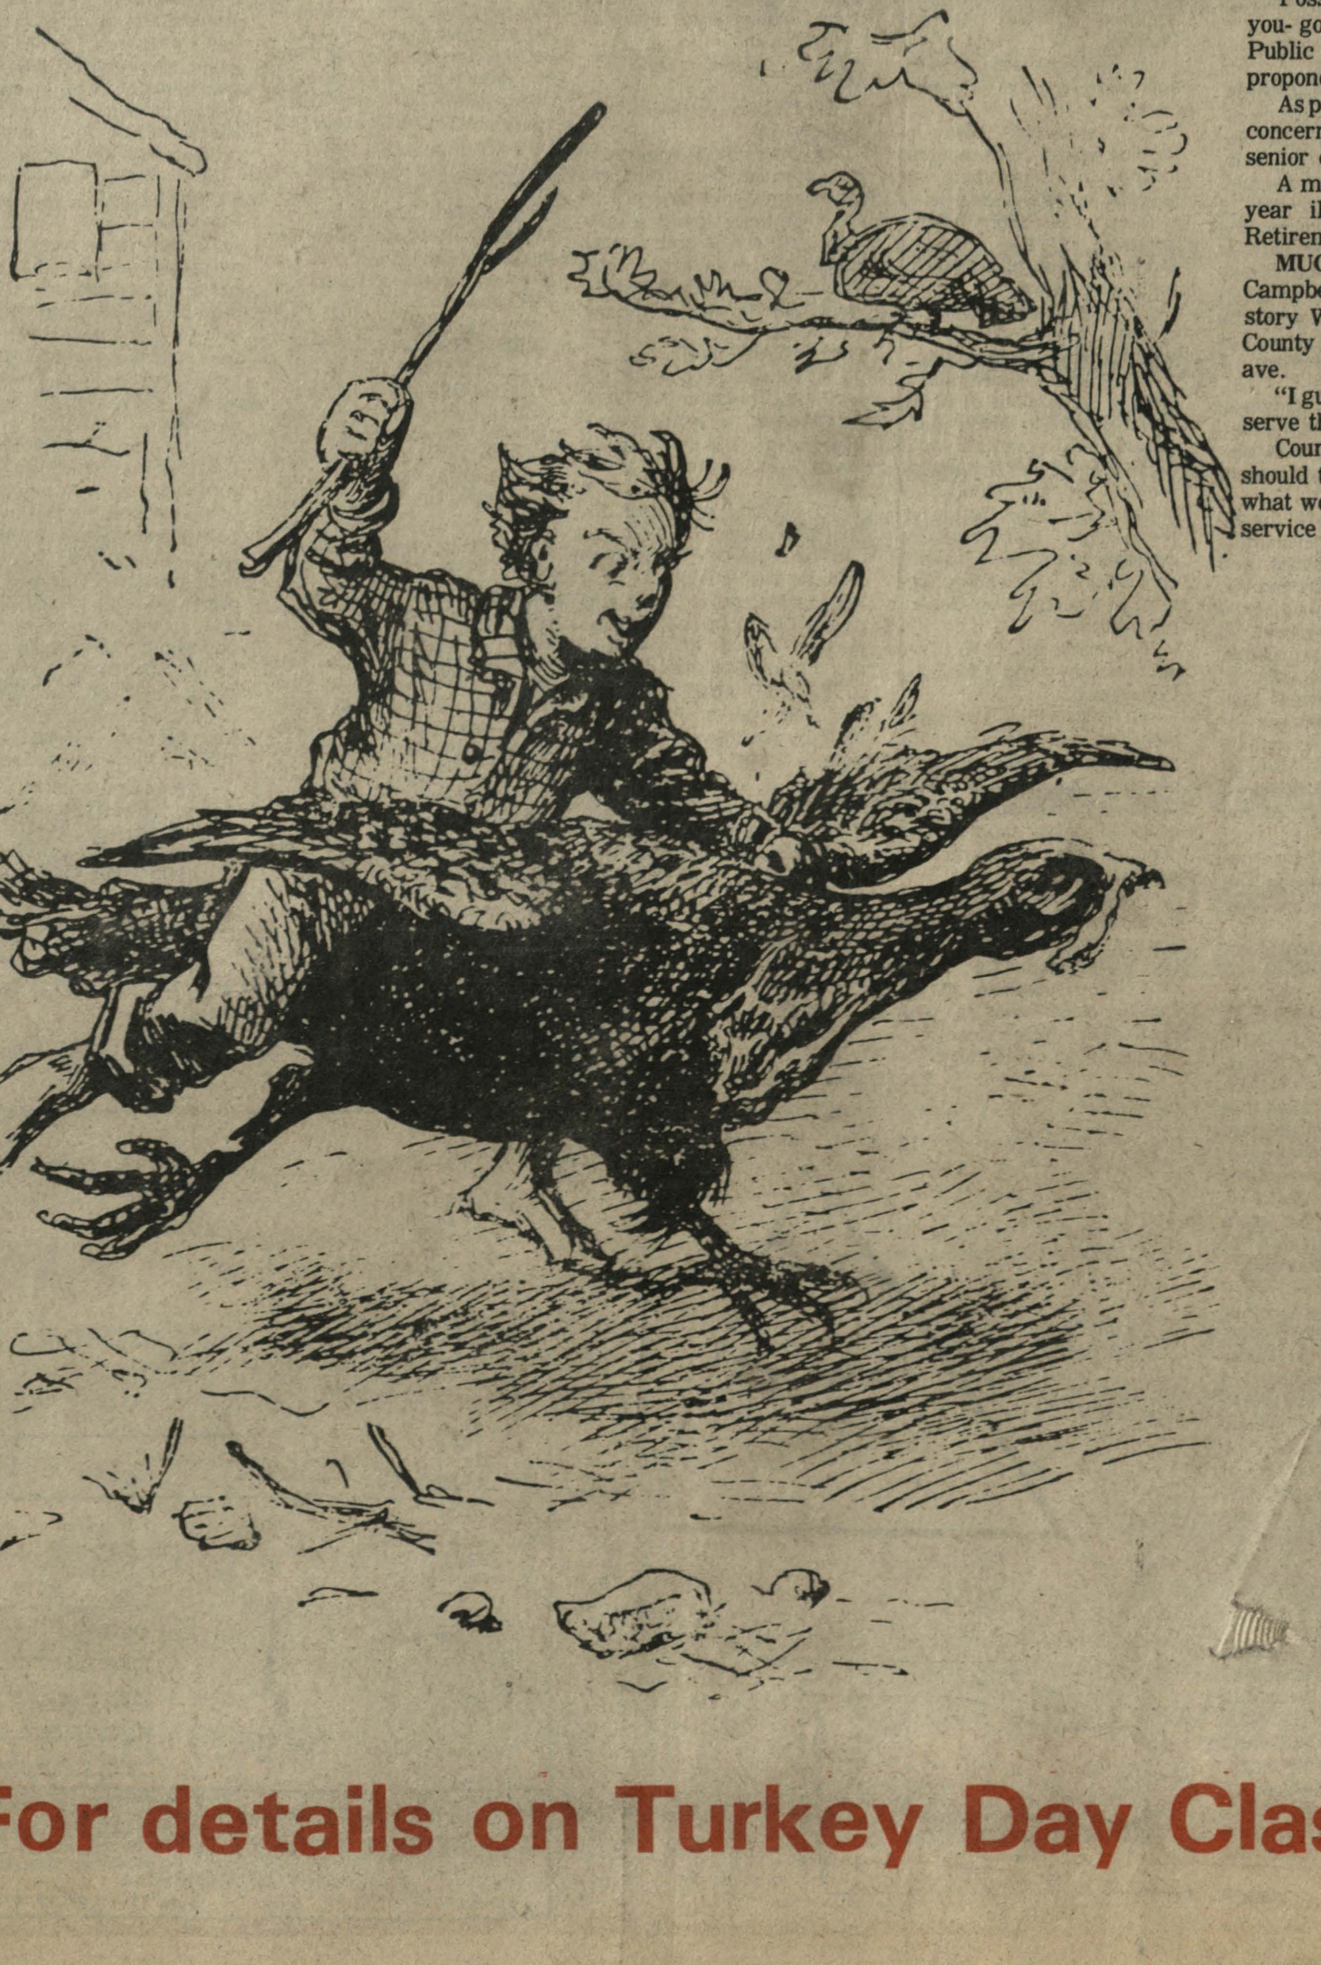
As part of the report that night Chief Borden expressed concern over the volumne of rescue calls in the future the senior citizen complexes planned for the city.

A map showing paramedic responses during the past year illustrated the most calls were made to The Retirement Inn of Campbell, a private retirement facility.

MUCH BIGGER developments will be coming into Campbell in the future, Borden noted, including the 12-story Wesley Manor, 200 units of housing through the County Housing Authority and Corinthian House on Budd ave.

"I guarantee we'll have one engine out all the time to serve those developments," Borden declared.

Councilman Norm Paul had a response. "I feel we should take a long look at the planning implications of what we're bringing into the city," he said, considering service needs as well as other factors.



A turkey whose time has come?

Someone forgot to tell this feisty tom that he was supposed to come quietly. The old bird seemed to guess right off that when Father said they were having him for dinner he did not mean a banquet of seed at the head of the table. Perhaps it was the gleam in Father's eye (or the gleam on the blade of the axe that Father held in his hand). Whatever the reason, Brother's help had to be enlisted in subduing the intended main dish for the Thanksgiving repast. We cannot report on the ultimate fate of the hapless turkey. But we hope, like the bird who gained the sanctuary of the tree, your Thanksgiving holiday is a peaceful one.

Students drop will continue

The current slide in local school enrollment will continue, according to a report to the Campbell Union School District Board of Education last Thursday night.

The report, from Assistant Superintendent-Personnel Ron Rescigno, projected the total enrollment in the district at 5991 by 1979. Enrollment this year is 7,523 students in the district's 16 schools.

The projections are mathematically derived," using existing figures and looking for trends," according to Rescigno. He added that the district is planning to canvass the area for pregnant mothers this year to insure realistic projections. At this point Trustee Jennie Vaughn jokingly asked Rescigno if he would be giving the prospective mothers the "rabbit or the frog test."

Rescigno told the meeting the best indicator of enrollment trends is the size of kindergarten classes from year to year. The number of kindergarten children in 1976 was 844. The projected number of kindergarten children in 1979 is 428, nearly half the 1976 total.

A current projection will be submitted to the board next spring. It will be at that point that decisions concerning future closings of schools will be mad[illegible]

Board me[illegible]rge Baker said [illegible] the meeting that in [illegible]vent of more school clo[illegible]ures, as was the case with Hamilton School, displacement of excess staff would "hopefully be handled through attrition."

Trustee Dr. Robert King agreed that the number of extra teachers and staff could be absorbed by the district through normal movement of personnel, such as retirement and resignation.

All systems are 'stop' on West Valley College stadium

OPPONENTS OF the 3,454 seat stadium at West Valley College prevailed last week as trustees voted 5-1 to deactivite any and all plans for the controversial bleachers.

Trustee John Cantlen said that issue should be "laid to rest" until the wound heals.

Strong opposition to that proposal, particularily in the Saratoga area, lead to the defeat of two incumbants in last year's trustee race.

On Dec. 6, 1976 the board voted to exempt West Valley College from all current and future Saratoga city zoning ordinances but rescinded that action May 19. At that time trustees directed the district's architects to draw up modified plans, deleting the lights and reducing the seating capacity.

Those revised plans were approved on Sept. 15 with staff directed to seek "review and recommendation imput from the City of Saratoga, persuant to the 1967 use permit." On Sept. 28 the Saratoga Planning Commission requested the application for an amendment.

INCLUDED IN the motion to drop plans for the stadium was the stipulation that trustees wili not honor that city request for a use permit amendment.

The motion passed with Trustee William "Ben" Gould dissenting.

After the vote athletic director Larry Jennings thanked everyone who had supported the P.E. department and complimented the taxpayers associations who had campaigned so hard against the lights and seating for their well planned campaign.

"The best man doesn't always win," Jennings added.

Trustee Foster Lopes requested the superintendent to come back with a report on the issue in a few months.

"I feel the stadium belongs at Mission," Lopes said. All board members agreed that the situation should be studied in the near future.

In other action trustees decided to hold over until Dec. 1 the resolution ordering a bond election for the next fiscal year. Several city officials from Santa Clara were on hand to express support for Mission College which bond funds would help finance.

MAYOR WILLIAM Gissler of Santa Clara told trustees residents have been looking forward to that campus for years.

Last Thursday the board also unanimously voted against a resolution ordering an advisory election on the question of financing Mission College.

"I don't think you need an advisory vote," Santa Clara councilman Bill Kiely declared. He said the college district has spent many hours studying the issue.

"You've been honest and fair and I think it's a cop-out to throw it out to the citizens. Make the decisions yourselves-they don't appreciate you anyway," Kiely said.

A major change is eyed at Campbell high school

WHAT ONE TEACHER described as "an almost revolutionary change" could be taking place at Campbell High School next fall, if a new program receives state funding through AB 65.

That proposal, which could receive more than $300,000 in state aid over the next five years, involved revamping Campbell High into "three schools" on one campus.

Courses would be divided into three levels of competency; basic skills, career education and college preparatory. Students could be programmed into one of these "school" areas for their education or, more likely, would cross over in different subjects depending on their ability, their needs and parental approval.

A STUDENT who excelled in math, for instance, and had trouble with English might be scheduled into college prep math a basic skills English class.

Last Wednesday over 100 teachers, students and parents met to hear the proposal by Principal Bud Baldwin. All are members of the school's advisory committees.

That hurry-up meeting was called to ask for the endorsement of representatives so the school can get their application into the state Department of Education by the Nov. 25 deadline. AB 65 was signed into law a few weeks ago but the school received permission from the district to make application for funds just last week.

After the presentation on the group gave an overwhelming "yes" vote to the plan.

If approved, Campbell High would receive $30 per average daily attendance (ADA) for planning the program. ADA is estimated at 1,500 for the local high school.

According to school officials that planning stage could be shortened from the usual one year because of prior planning for the Individually Guided Education (IGE) program which got underway in the 1975-76 school year.

PLANNING would start in February of 1978 and continue through the summer months so the new program could be in effect for the 1978-79 school year.

Districts who receive state approval will also get $60 per ADA for the next three years to put the program into effect. A fifth year evaluation stage is also planned but no funding information was available.

Teachers at the high school would be assigned to one of the three basic "schools" with some overlapping when necessary.

And all courses would have five basic targets for learning including, social, cultural and civic responsibility, learning skills, self realization, vocational-avocational and learning process.

PRIOR TO scheduling students into this new structure student advisors would study the special needs and requirements for each student and contact parents.

If the objectives of the plan are successful Campbell students will be involved in the most individualized educational program in the high school district.

Every state or federally funded program though brings with it the spectre of "outside control." In this case the district would be accountable to the state as well as the district and community for the program.

But, as of last week, AB 65 was an educator's dream. A flexible funding program with few strings attached.

The only restrictions laid down so far are that funds cannot be used to reduce class size or to replace the normal school resources.

rest will be left as is. The park district had a problem with the contractor on the job, Guisto explained, but hopes to have the fence installed soon.

I was pleased to see the letters from Mr. Hanrahan and Mr. Licina. I too have complained about your sports coverage and have seen no change. The reason I subscribed to the Campbell PRESS was to read about local sports, especially youth sports, and I have been disappointed. Maybe if enough Campbell people express their disapproval there will be an improvement. Has (Sports Editor) Dick Sparrer left his heart in San Jose? It certainly isn't in Campbell.

I understand that if the owners of the Factory and the Bodega can't make payments on that $1 million plus parking district in the future, the city has to take over the costs. Is that true?

Concerned

Editor's note: According to Engineering Manager Bill Helms the answer is, "ultimately yes." But the procedure for taking over those payments would include foreclosure of the property, Helms explained, with the proceeds used to pay off the district. The Factory and Bodega parking district plan is identical to other local improvement districts within the city.

What is the A.C.L.U. doing locally: Where is it officed? How does one get in touch with it? Can we have a feature story on the A.C.L.U.?

Curious

Editor's note: After making repeated attempts to make contact with the local American Civil Liberties Union office I'm curious myself. Numerous calls to the 293-2584 number received no answer and a conversation with a staff person in the San Francisco office didn't help much either. That spokesman said since the San Jose office is staffed by volunteers they were obviously out when I tried to call. He would not give out the address since he says they're located in a private residence. The San Jose chapter is very active, he continued, and they keep their members informed by a newsletter and by monthly meetings. When I asked how the public would be able to contact the A.C.L.U. if they needed help, I was told, "Madam. We don't provide emergency services."

A HEAVY HEIST

Police are looking for three or more suspects in a grand theft case. Or for one man with a hernia.

According to reports, The Light Brigade was robbed of a large case of colored glass panes, valued at $1,000 last Saturday. The boxes had been temporarily left outside the store.

The weight of the heist was 600 pounds.

WOULD YOU BELIEVE IT WAS STOLEN?

A campbell patrolman responding to a report of a traffic accident on Civic Center drive near City Hall last Monday night noticed a man running slowly across Campbell ave. about a half block from the scene.

When the patrolman arrived he found the car had smashed into a street light post and no driver was in sight. A check of the vehicle registration led him to the owner who lives on Connie drive but he found no one home.

Two hours later that same patrolman responded to a report of a stolen car at that Connie drive address. He recognized the "victim" as the man he'd seen earlier near the scene of the accident.

The man was arrested on suspicion of hit and run and filing a false report of a crime.

MUSIC SHOP HIT A THIRD TIME

Last Tuesday morning the owners of Campbell Music Center at 68 E. Campbell ave. reported a burglary with $814.95 worth of electric guitars missing.

This was the third break-in at the store in recent months.

GOING INTO BUSINESS

Two young Hazelwood students who planned to set up their own school supply business were thwarted last week when the mother of one of the youngsters became suspicious over what she found in her son's room.

The two, 9 and 10 years old, were later found to have broken into Hazelwood School on several occasions to collect their inventory.

Police recovered 139 pencils, 21 boxes of crayons, 97 felt pens, 81 erasers and several other items.

200 POUNDS OF NAILS

A construction shed on Bucknall road was reportedly broken into last week and $1,156 in tools and supplies stolen.

According to reports, the construction company lost power tools, 1,300 foot of power cord and four 50 pound boxes of nails.

Very impressed with toastmistress confab

EDITOR:

I am a new member of International Toastmistress Clubs.

Last Saturday I attended my first "Training Conference" sponsored by Toastmistress Clubs from throughout Santa Clara County at the Holiday Inn in downtown San Jose.

I was very impressed with the professionalism and expertise of the workshop leaders and their ability to impart so much information relating the leadership and communication skills for day-to-day activity at home and at work. These learned skills have already helped me in my personal and professional growth and development.

I learned more in this one day training conference than I have in similar career-related conferences, which were highly promoted and very expensive.

This was a marvelous opportunity for me and I urge other members of the community to take advantage of Toastmistress Clubs in their own vicinity.

Questioned by KGB

Victor sang his way out of Russia

By STEVE HASTINGS

VICTOR RIVKIN doesn't look like a folksinger, but then he doesn't look like a computer programmer, either. The Campbell man is both.

Rivkin played before a group of San Jose state university students recently, singing folksongs from his native country, Russia. Between songs, he talked quietly about his lifein that country.

Rivkin, 35, has been a resident of Campbell for about three months. He lived and worked in Leningrad, Russia's second largest city, until less than a year ago. At Leningrad University, he studied mathematics and worked as a computer programmer for six years. He continues that profession in this country.

BESIDES HIS professional life, Rivkin has a great love of music. He played jazz in the Leningrad nightclubs, playing saxophone three nights a week for seven years.

Politics entered his life, when Rivkin began to read "underground publications. These are publications which the Russian government has declared illegal to read or distribute. Punishments are often severe.

During this time, Rivkin discovered Russian political songs. These were protest songs, written by the poets of the underground. In content, they were very much like the songs of Woody Guthrie or Bob Dylan in America, trying to awaken people to the atrocities occurring every day just outside their doors.

Rivkin, although he performs many of these songs, has never written any of his own.

"It is better," he explains in a thick Russian accent, "to sing songs than write not good ones."

The songs he performs are about "freedom, about people," the Campbell man says. Many of them evolve from his Jewish heritage, such as one called the "All Years Fire Ballad," set to the music of a traditional Jewish folk song.

PEOPLE IN RUSSIA prefer to ignore the killings and imprisonment of others, said Rivkin. That is why he started to play the protest songs in local cafes, to tell the people they should be concerned.

Writers from the underground face severe repression from the government, he charged. Some have bowed to the pressure and stayed, some have fled, and some have been exiled, like the author of the "Gulag Archapaelago," Alexsander Solzhenitzhen. Rivkin mentioned a famous underground poet who is now working directly for the government, and a songwriter who gave up protest songs to return to teaching school in Moscow.

Rivkin was questioned by the KGB (Russia's CIA) for a straight seven and a half hours concerning his reading and distributing underground materials and for playing protest songs in public, he charged.

HE FACED LOSING his job, his friends, and perhaps impisonment. Through a Jewish assistance group called HIES in Rome, and with help from a friend at Stanford University, he was able to bring his family to this area.

Rivkin believes that his is the first large family brought from Russia to this country by such a means. He now lives comfortably, through the financial help of many Jewish friends, with his wife, his 77-year-old mother-in-law, and three children, the eldest nine years old and five-year-old twins.

Whether or not Victor Rivkin will be performing his songs locally is uncertain. He has received offers to do presentations in Berkeley and in the Monterey area, but he is not sure if the people here will understand his message.

And, although he is happy living in America, Rivkin would like to be back in his homeland with his people. He feels if he were still in Leningrad, he might be able to inspire his people towards freedom.

LESS THAN a year ago Campbell's Victor Rivkin brought his family from Russia, his native land, to live in America. Today the computer programmer has adjusted to his new life but still would rather be in Leningrad singing his protest songs. Recently he performed some of those songs for San Jose state university students.

Political reform act ruled out

Capitol News Service

The Fair Political Practices Commission called it "a ridiculous ruling" and plans to appeal it, but a Los Angeles Superior Court Judge nonetheless ruled the state's 1974 Political Reform Act unconstitutional.

Judge Parks Stillwell ruled recently that when the Act was proposed as a ballot initiative, the language in it unconstitutionally addressed more than one subject.

Under the Act, candidates for political office and political campaign committees must disclose all contributions, expenses, loans and gifts.

As an overseer of the new law the Fair Political Practices Commission was formed to analyze campaign filing reports.

Since its inception, the Act has undergone some constitutional whittling down. Provisions to limit the amount of political spending and the size of individual contributions were declared unconstitutional by the U.S. Supreme Court. Another court decision killed a provision forbidding lobbyists to advise their employers about a legislator's voting record.

The Act still survived with a powerful clause that limits the amount of gift-giving from legislative lobbyists and requires them to file a report on all such gifts.

The FPPC appeal will provide an immediate delay on Stillwell's ruling.

Dec. 28 meeting

Parade and parks on city council agenda

A petition to rename a city park, consideration of a building moritorium and a request for a "stationary parade" comes before city councilmen at the Monday, Nov. 28 meeting. The session starts at 8 p.m. in Campbell City Hall, 75 N. Central ave.

Members of the Country Woman's Club of Campbell will be on hand to repetition the City Council to rename the tiny Harrison Park the J.C. Ainsley Park. An earlier recommendation by the Civic Improvement Commission was noted and filed by the Council.

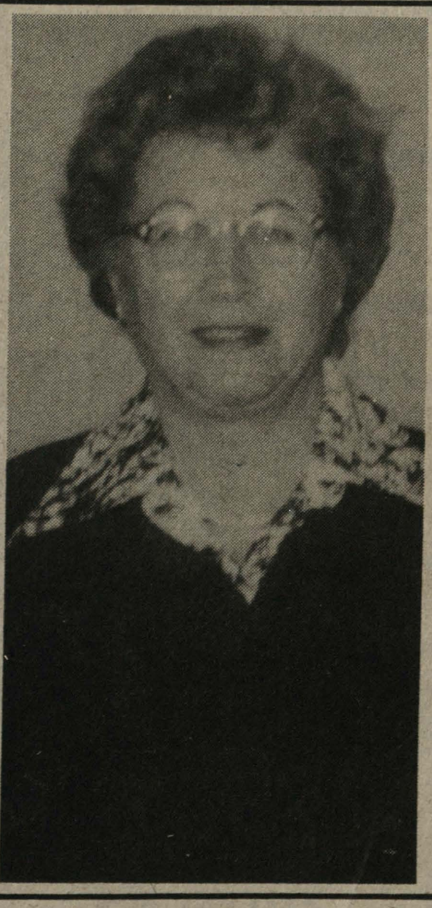
The old Camden road area could have a building moritorium imposed Monday night because of a lack of fire hydrants to serve that industrial area.

A citizens band radio club has requested a permit for a St. Patrick's Day parade to be held on March 17.

Originally the group wanted to use the loop streets as a parade route but that idea was opposed by Police Chief Don Burr. Instead, the group has evidently reached agreement on holding a "stationary parade" on Campbell ave. between Harrison st. and Third complete with floats. Parade goers would walk up and down Campbell ave. to observe the "parade."

Also scheduled for discussion Monday night is:

- A request by the Campbell Chamber of Commerce to erect service club signs.
- Second reading and adoption of a bingo ordinance.
- An arcade permit request from William Whitney for the Campbell Skateboard Park at 2155 S. Bascom ave. Chief Burr is recommending against this permit.
- A resolution awarding the contract for installation of sidewalks on old Camden road.
- Discussion of the $94,700 in federal Housing and Community Development funds originally earmarked for a semi-mall for downtown Campbell.
- A resolution setting the municipal general election for March 7, 1978.
- A request for an antique auction gallery permit from Pat Madden for Canterbury Galleries.



For the past 17 years Helen Dreher has been a familiar face around City Hall. The Sunnyvale woman who has served as police clerk, matron and clerk typist for the Campbell Police Department was placed on early disability retirement recently due to an eye problem. Friends and co-workers will be turning out in force on Wednesday, Nov. 30 for her retirement luncheon at La Fonda's restaurant in Campbell. When Helen joined the force in 1960 there were six police officers. Today there are 36. Helen and her husband Bob, a retired deputy for the Santa Clara County Sheriff's Office, are the parents of two sons and grandparents of two.

Service to aid disabled in the home

A new service is being started for developmentally disabled children and adults in Santa Clara county.

The Home Companion Program, sponsored by Community Association for Retarded, Inc. (C.A.R.), based in Palo Alto, will begin Dec. 16. Companions will be trained and sent to the homes of the developmentally disabled to care for them and their siblings for periods from a few hours to several days.

The companion will be paid for by the family receiving the service, but in many cases the full amount can be paid through the Department of Health.

Companions will be given 20 hours of classroom training and 10 hours of field experience before they are sent to a home.

Parents interested in registering for the service should contact program coordinator Marilyn Norling, 494-0551. Anyone interested in training to become a home companion should also contact her to sign up for a class.

HOLDING A rally at Willow Street Park last week to protest the 80-acre Ainsley development planned were over 300 residents of the area near that large parcel. The residents say there's no need for another shopping center in the area and are opposed to commercial zoning for part of that land. They were also scheduled to appear before the San Jose City Council Tuesday to plead their case.

Not much progress in park progress report

A PROGRESS report on the Los Gatos Creek Park project came in for some critical comments at the last City Council session. And officials say they expect plans and specifications for Phase II of the project at the Nov. 28 meeting. They also took exception to two conclusions of that report.

Rapattoni and Associates were commissioned in late May to work out the details on the project which involves installing an exercise course, observation tower and other amenities to the creekside park.

According to Public Works Director Joe Elliott, the city expected more progress by the consultants on a project which should have gone out to bid by now. Instead, Elliott said, the Council can advertise for bids on Dec. 12, have work started by Feb.1 and completed by May 31. That is, if final plans and specs are available by the Nov. 28 meeting.

If plans aren't complete by that time, Elliott told the Council, the city can cancel the contract with consultants.

PHASE II OF the Los Gatos Creek project is being funded through the city, county and state but Campbell is the lead agency in charge of the work. The consultant's report included some criticism of that lead agency.

"In our discussions with other agencies," the consultants reported," they made direct comment in a negative fashion relating to the total lack of maintenance by city staff on the east side of the creek."

Elliott later disputed that charge stating maintenance of the east side of the creek was the responsibility of the contractors up until the end of August when the city took over.

NO ONE IS disputing though, the fact that upwards of 40 per cent of the plants and seedlings along the bank have died. The original plan, part of Phase I, called for planting trees in 5-gallon containers but, when funds began to run short, hundreds of seedlings were planted instead and many could not survive the drought.

Another statement by the consultants was also termed "unacceptable" by councilmen last week.

The observation tower originally called for construction to be done so it is accessible to the handicapped. The consultants want to change that to stairways instead of a ramp.

"If a wheelchair ramp is necessary," the report states, "the ramp would have to be a minimum of 96 feet long to conform with the State handicap standards."'"Estimates put the cost of that ramp at equal to the cost of the observation tower itself.

OTHER OBSERVATIONS of that consultant's report include;

- The fact that the proposed exercise course will have to be designed individually instead of purchased outright from one of the five copyrighted courses on the market because of city bidding procedures.
- The pedestrian bridge to Camden ave. and the upper Page drop structure pedestrian span will have to be completely enclosed for safety.

Building halt planned for Camden road

City officials intend to impose a building moritorium on old Camden road and action on the proposal is expected at the Monday, Nov. 28 City Council meeting.

At the last council session Fire Chief Gene Borden called for the halt to new construction until provisions can be made to get fire hydrant service for that industrial area. At present fire hoses would have to be laid across Winchester blvd. and across the railroad tracks to fight a fire in that area.

The Council decided to announce their intention to institute a moratorium and called for a two week continuance so all affected property owners can be notified.

Earlier that evening attorney Wade Hover, representing the Woolworth Construction Company, struck a compromise with officials over the requirement that a $20,000 fire hydrant be installed at 740 Camden ave. It is within the area being considered for the moratorium.

Hover said his clients would put up the $20,000 to have the line installed with the understanding they receive a partial reinbursement later from adjacent property owners when that land is developed.

Borden estimated the total cost to install hydrants for the entire old Camden road area is $57,680. The high cost for installing that one hydrant for Woolworth, he explained, was for running the lines underground across the Southern Pacific tracks.

Councilman Ralph Doetsch suggested that night that the city could pay the cost of providing hydrants for that area and then collect the costs later when new developments go in.

The vote on the Council's intent to impose a moratorium on that area passed on a 4-1 vote with Doetsch opposed.

Red tape is cut on towers sign

Owners of the Prune-Yard Towers won't have to come before city officials yearly to get permission for the "Peace on Earth," sign, Campbell councilmen decided last Monday night.

Instead, staff will be authorized to approve the special event sign on the condition it be erected on or after Nov. 18 and removed on or before Jan. 16 each year.

The vote on the Planning Commission recommended change was unanimous.

of city funds in the statewide Local Agency Investment Fund. Councilman Dean Chamberlin cast the

In other action last week the Council:

- Voted 4-1 against authorizing the investment Jeff Whittaker was instructed to bring the proposal back before the Council in the future if he feels investment in the state fund would result in a significant gain in interest income.
- Continued (for the last time) the appeal by Robert Firato of the Planning Commission denial of his plans for a coffee house for teens at 476 E. Campbell ave. That appeal has been scheduled at a half dozen council sessions so far and officials voted to send Firato a 30 day notice to either appear and present the appeal or have the item dropped from the agenda.
- Heard a report by County Librarian Barbara Campbell that the Campbell library will allow the senior citizens club to play bingo in the Community Room as long as they have city approval. Since the county meeting room rules prohibit bingo, Campbell said she had to discuss the situation with County Counsel to get a ruling.
- Voted unanimously to support AB 1820, the obscenity legislation introduced this year in the state legislature.
- Heard a report from City Manager Bob Stephens on the community schools meeting between city staff and the West Valley College and Campbell Union High School districts. Stephens said both indicated their willingness to work with the city to develop a community schools program similar to the one now operating at Moreland School.
- Referred future planning for the Neighborhood School Park program back to the Parks and Recreation Commission.

Petitions criticise cutback in city street sweeping

Close to 900 signatures have been obtained on petitions calling for the city to reinstitute once a week street sweeping in residential neighborhoods.

That issue is expected to be discussed at the Monday, Dec. 12 City Council meeting.

Earlier this year Campbell city councilmen called for the cutback in street sweeping to once every third week for residential streets and once a week service in commercial areas. Business districts formerly were swept twice a week.

Originally the idea was to save on water usage during the drought but, since then, possible savings in labor costs, equipment and gasoline are being studied.

A report on savings to date and on future savings from the cutback will be made by Public Works Department staff at the Dec. 12 session.

Four neighborhood groups, in different parts of the city, have drawn up and circulated petitions criticising that cutback.

Objections cited include the city's unsightly appearance, possible flooding of streets if heavy rains come while storm drains are clogged with leaves, and possible danger from the refuse and leaves.

Contract drawn up for use of Hamilton School

By JIM PARKER

A RECOMMENDATION to draw up a contract between the Campbell Union School District and Metropolitan Adult Education (MAEP) for the use of Hamilton School was approved at the school board meeting last Thursday night. The school, located at 480 E. Hamilton ave. was closed last year due to declining enrollment.

The contract will be submitted to the board two weeks prior to the Dec. 16 meeting.

Thursday night elementary trustees rejected several MAEP proposals, including the clause that called for the district to be responsible for both repairs and maintenance of the facility during the term of the lease.

Trustee Gordon Abbott said he feels the responsibility for maintenance and repairs should be borne by the leasee (MAEP) and not the school district. He added that the proposed terms of the lease, $70,000 yearly, seemed high to him at first.

"BUT," ABBOTT added," it works out to about 18 cents a square foot per month just for the buildings."

Joining Abbott in his opposition to that maintenance proviso was Trustee Dr. Robert King. He said he feels the area around Hamilton School is prime land to offer at such a low price and, in light of the continuing drop in enrollment, there will be plenty of surplus schools in the future.

The school board also made it clear Thursday they want to exercise control over any sub-leasing of the school site. Abbott suggested that only government agencies involved with education be able to sub-lease.

EARLIER THIS year a citizen's committee, appointed by the school board, studied possible future uses for Hamilton School. That committee recommended the facility be leased for a two year period and that trustees review the site at the end of that time to decide whether or not to continue the lease arrangements or sell the unused elementary school.

Several outside agencies, including the Jewish Foundation, had earlier expressed interest in leasing the school. The City of Campbell was also looking into the possibility of leasing part of that facility for a senior citizens center.

County baiting program

On the trail of the roof rat

By PAT SAFFORD

THE SKITTERING of little feet in the attic or crawl space of local homes isn't a blessed event for the homeowner. It could mean he has roof rats for living companions.

Since the Roof Rat Control Program was instituted in Campbell and surrounding neighborhoods earlier this year over 200 calls of concern have come into the Campbell Public Works Department.

Some people ask what to do about the rats they have found in their attic, garage and, in one case, an interior wall.

Some callers are concerned that the rat baiting program underway by the county could harm their cat, dog or their pet squirrel (it won't). Others just call to say they have a dog in their yard so county workers should use another backyard to service the utility pole bait stations.

"The County Health Department has confirmed the existence of a rat problem in your neighborhood," the form letter sent out to local neighborhoods begins. It goes on to say bait stations will be placed on utility poles throughout the neighborhood in the next week and suggests people call if there's any problem of gaining access to their backyard.

"ONE CALLER reported he had a pit bull in his backyard," Charlene Case, public works administrative aide related last week. "The men used another yard to gain access to the pole," she added.

The two-2 inch square paraffin blocks being installed on telephone poles throughout the contain Diphacinone, a poison which causes internal bleeding and death for the rats.

"Many people are concerned that the bait may harm their cat or their dog," Case said, "and some are worried about their pet squirrel. I never realized how many pet squirrels there were in Campbell," she added.

The bait is installed 20 feet above ground on the telephone poles so it is out of the reach of dogs, Case explained.

"AND THE BAIT will not affect cats nor will it have a secondary effect should the dead rat be consumed by the cat."

As for squirrels, also part of the rodent family, the fact that the bait is securely fastened to the holder makes it unattractive. A squirrel doesn't feed where he finds the food, Case noted, but carries it back to his nest for a snack or for storage.

So far just a few neighborhoods in the Campbell area have been baited but in the next year all residents are expected to get that health department letter.

And people should be aware of the culprit; the roof rat.

The differences between it and the common field mouse are easy to spot. First, the roof rat is bigger. He lives in attics, garages, woodpiles and ivey and can be seen climbing trees and walking along power lines. The roof rat feeds on fruits and nuts and is partial to walnuts.

THROUGH AN agreement worked out between the county and the City of Campbell, the county will be installing and refilling the bait stations and the city will be monitoring the stations to see if the bait is consumed and handling calls from citizens.

That baiting program however, isn't the complete answer to residential rodent control.

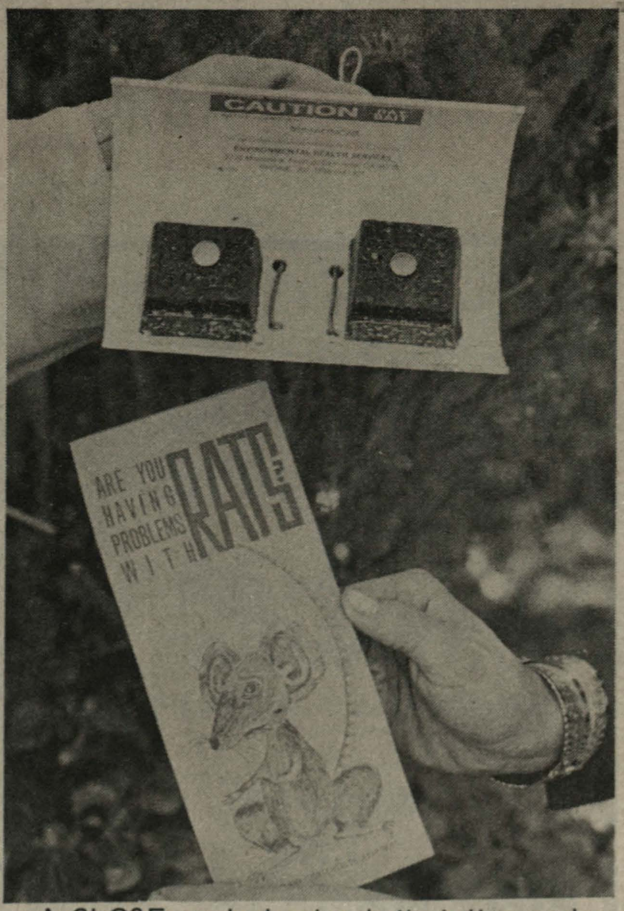
"Unless environmental factors that support rat populations are removed or reduced, rat numbers will soon repopulate the baited area," Case said. The lush vegetative ground cover and ornamental fruit trees prized by the homeowner also provides the basic requirements of food and shelter for the rats.

So, what can the average citizen do to help reduce rat numbers?

- Remove or thin ivy growths.
- Reduce or eliminate other thick vegetative growth on the ground or around the fences such as juniper, black berries, clematis vines, etc.
- Stack firewood and lunber away from buildings and at least 18 inches off the ground.

CHECK THE exterior of your house for possible rat entry and close them with wire mesh hardward cloth or other rat proof material. Give particular attention to foundation and attic vents or locations where pipes or wires enter buildings. Also check unfinished wall areas such as between the house and attached garage. Rats can get through openings as small as ½ inch in diameter.

- Reduce rat food by harvesting fruits and nuts. Foodstuff commonly stored in garages or sheds, such as pet foods and nuts, should be kept in sealed metal containers.
- Do not feed pets or wildlife in excess of immediate consumption because food left out overnight can become rat food.
- Make sure your garbage can has a tight fitting lid in place at all times.



A CLOSE up look at a bait station and a pamphlet available through the County Health Department. Since the program got underway locally several months ago many residents have been concerned over possible harm to their pets from the bait. Last week county and city officials had answers to those concerns.

A FAMILIAR sight around Campbell these days are county vector control technicians like Robert Knox above, climbing telephone polls to install or refill rat bait stations designed to control the roof rat population. Numerous complaints and inquiries received from the public in Campbell and surrounding areas have confirmed the existence of a rat problem by county health officials. The baiting program is just part of the solution. The resident must do the rest.

TALKING IT OVER — Assistant coach Mike DiGrazia and linebacker Dan Rozewicz talk over some strategy in a Campbell game played earlier this season. The Bucs cap their season Thursday against rival Los Gatos.

Velasco run keys victory

Bucs dominate Leigh, look for win over LG

By DAVE MENDONCA

WHEN THE 1977 West Valley Athletic League football season got underway, the Campbell Buccaneers were expected to contend for the league championship.

But the Bucs turned out to be a rather unpredictable team, capable of beating the highly touted Camden Cougars one week while able only to tie the winless Prospect Panthers the next.

After a miserable start, that eliminated them from the WVAL race in a hurry, the Buccaneers are currently ending the season with a flourish.

For the second straight week, Campbell played up to its potential last Friday afternoon by whipping the scrappy Leigh Longhorns 22-12 on the Bucs' homefield before a small, wind chilled crowd.

The victory came on the heels of a 54-24 rout of Blackford and evened the Buccaneers' WVAL record at 3-3-1, good for sole possession of fifth place.

"Our kids have really hit the last two weeks," said Campbell head coach Al Matthews following the win. "This should make the next game coming up a little more interesting."

The Bucs' next game, of course, is their traditional season finale against bitter rival Los Gatos on Thanksgiving Day.

Campbell visit the Wildcats, who clinched the WVAL title last week with a 25-0 win over Del Mar, in an 11 a.m. tilt Thursday morning.

"WE'RE MORE into the game mentally," said Matthews, explaining his club's return to form in the past two weeks. "We're thinking a little more."

The Buccaneers were never really in danger of losing last week's ballgame, jumping out to an early lead and then controlling the contest the rest of the way.

Carlos Velasco, who has sparked the Campbell offense since returning from an early season injury, bolted 50 yards for a touchdown just two minutes into the game to put Campbell on the road to victory.

Dave Sasscer came on to boot the extra point.

On Campbell's very next possession, the Bucs traveled 74 yards on 12 plays to score again and take a 15-0 lead.

Gordon Perry capped the drive with a three yard run over the left side of the Bucs' offensive line. Quarterback Dan Trinidad then ran in the two point conversion to put the Bucs in front by 15.

The Longhorns cut their halftime deficit to nine points when Rick McDiarmid returned a Campbell punt 74 yards for a touchdown.

Aside from McDiarmid's punt return, the first half belonged to Campbell. The Bucs ran more plays (27-17) and gained more yards (175-55).

And things didn't change much in the second half. Campbell finished the game with 56 offensive plays and 310 net yards compared to Leigh's respective totals of 40 and 136.

Much of Campbell's success could be attributed to the play of its offensive line. The Bucs' line of center Lee Egger, guards Rick Tucci and Dan Raines, tackles Steve Aimonetti and Glen Gray, tightend Dan Romeo and splitend Mike Updegraff manhandled the Longhorns' line for the most part.

Campbell would up with 203 yards on the ground, Dan Rozewicz leading the way with 75 yards on 15 carries.

Included in Rozewicz' afternoon was a five yard touchdown run in the opening moments of the fourth quarter that iced the victory. Sasscer again added the extra point kick.

Velasco finished with 56 yards on eight carries while Perry added 29 on six tries. Trinidad carried the ball five times for 23 yards and Updegraff added 10 yards on two totes.

Trinidad enjoyed one of his better passing performances of the season, completing nine of 13 passes for 107 yards. Eric Harris caught four passes for 48 yards while Rozewicz and Updegraff each caught a pair of passes.

In addition to a stellar day on offense, Rozewicz was a key figure on defense for the Bucs with a team leading seven tackles.

Tackle Rich Kiss was in on seven tackles and linebacker Pat Ryan recorded five hits. Perry made three tackles, including a quarterback sack of Leigh's Mark Mena.

Bucs - Wildcats clash in Turkey Day classic

By DICK SPARRER
Sports Editor

THERE ISN'T much satisfaction derived from reading a book or watching a movie when you already know how it's going to end. The drama is gone!

But everyone knows that miserly Ebenezer Scrooge gives Tiny Tim a Teddy Bear in the end of Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol." And people still read the book and enjoy the movie every December. There's a good reason for that — it's a classic!

Well, the West Valley Athletic League football race is much the same this season. Los Gatos has already wrapped up the league title with its 7-0 record with just one game to play.

Only Campbell is left on the Wildcat's schedule for 1977, but it's still going to be an interesting game — it is every November. Because the annual Los Gatos - Campbell Thanksgiving Day game is a classic!

Campbell will visit Los Gatos for the Turkey Day "classic" Thursday at 11 a.m. The Buccaneers will take a 3-3-1 record and two game winning streak into the battle with the Cats. Campbell, 4-4-1 overall on the year, will be looking for a winning season with a victory over LG.

"It would certainly be nice to beat Los Gatos," said Campbell boss Al Matthews looking ahead to the game. "Beating them would make our season for us. It's like the Cal-Stanford game to us."

"IT'S BEEN a real disappointing year for us," added the coach. "We're a better football team than our record indicates. We're a good football team when we're all together, but we've had between two and six guys out every game with injuries."

Quarterback Dan Trinidad will lead the Bucs into action Thursday against the powerful Wildcats.

"He's outstanding," said Matthews of his quarterback. "He's well poised and handles the ball well."

Running behind Trinidad will be hard running Carlos Velasco and speedy Eric Harris. Powerful Dan Rosewicz will handle the fullback spot.

Top Buc running back Fred Heidler will probably spend the day on the sidelines with an injury.

"We'll try to throw a little more than we have to get some consistency out of our offense," said Matthews. "Out problem is to try to hold onto the ball and not-break down with penalties."

"They have a good football team," said Matthews of the Cats. "Defensively they have the best team in the league. Their defense really swarms. They put pressure on the passer and they're very physical. They really come at you."

Kent Gerber leads the Wildcat offense into action. The quarterback has already flipped 19 touchdown passes.

"They have some good kids at their skill positions," said the coach. "We'll have to hold onto the ball. We can't let them throw."

Los Gatos leads series 25-15-3

Warriors remain winless on road, thanks to Bruins

IF THE Westmont Warriors could have played all of their games at home this season they might have walked off with the West Valley Athletic League championship.

Unfortunately for the Warriors, only half of their games were played at home. The other half have been on the road.

The Warriors, who close out their 1977 season Thursday morning at home, are 4-0 so far this season at home. But their record on the road is another story altogether.

Westmont traveled to Branham last Friday and wound up on the short end of a 30-13 decision, leaving the Warriors with an 0-5 road record this year.

"We moved the ball well and had a chance to win the game," said Warrior head coach Don Stagnaro. "But we just couldn't score."

Trailing 23-13 at the half, the Warrior moved inside the Branham 10 yard line four times in the final two periods and failed to register any points.

"It was just a matter of not getting into the endzone," said Stagnaro.

The Warriors return to home sweet home Thursday for their traditional Thanksgiving battle with the Leigh Longhorns. Game time is 11 a.m.

WESTMONT HAD taken the early lead against Camden Branham last Friday on a 28 yard touchdown pass from Scott Ruiz to Steve Moore. Ruiz booted the extra point.

Branham came back to take a 10-7 lead on a kickoff return and a field goal.

But the Warriors went back in front in the second period on a one yard TD run by Phil LoPresti, cappint a 70 yard drive.

Ruiz sparked the drive with key completions to Mike Bossio, for 12 yards, and Marcel Adame, for 19 yards. Greg Athearn chipped in with a 12 yard run and the Bruins contributed a pair of crucial penalties.

Westmont's chances of winning the game, however, were damaged by the losses of fullbacks Athearn and Rich Elston to injuries.

"They really shutdown our running game," noted Stagnaro.

Lopresti was the Warriors' leading rusher, gaining only 35 yards on 18 carries.

Ruiz accounted for most of Westmont's offense, completing 17 of 35 passes for 215 yards. Bossio caught five for 60 yards, Steve Nuich caught four for 54 and Adame snared three for 43.

Seers look for perfect day on Thanksgiving

THE TEAMS of the West Valley Athletic League will wrap up the season this Thursday morning in the annual Thanksgiving Day football games and it will also mark of the end of the season for the brilliant prep predictors.

The predictors are 29-11 overall on the year heading into the last week of play and are looking for a perfect Thanksgiving in the WVAL.

In the big game of the day, league champ Los Gatos will host Campbell in Elsewhere around the circuit, Branham visits Prospect, Camden heads to Del Mar and Leigh treks to Westmont, all for 11 a.m. games.

an 11 a.m. game. The Wildcats will wrap up a perfect season with a 10 point win over the Bucs.

The Bruins will whip the Panthers by 16, the Cougars will take the Dons by four and the Longhorns will top the Warriors by eight.

Pride at stake when WVAL teams collide Thursday

NOTHING but pride will be at stake Thursday morning when eight teams in the West Valley Athletic League square-off in their traditional Thanksgiving Day season finales.

Last year four teams were still in the running for the league championship when Thanksgiving Day rolled around — Branham, Prospect, Leigh and Los Gatos.

But this year's title was decided last Friday night at Los Gatos high school when the host Wildcats remained unbeaten by knocking off the second place Del Mar Dons 25-0.

But while no title will be at stake, Thursday's games still mean quite a lot to the players involved. A win could make the winning season better and a losing season a little easier to take.

Thursday's match-ups feature Campbell at Los Gatos, Camden at Del Mar, Leigh at Westmont and Branham at Prospect. All four games are set ot start at 11 a.m.

Del Mar, Camden fight for 2nd

The Camden Cougars and Del Mar Dons will be battling it out for second place honors in the WVAL as both clubs enter the final day with identical 5-2 records.

Camden holds a 12-5 series edge over the Dons, having won the last three years in a row. Del Mar last beat Camden in 1973.

"We're expecting a tough game," said Camden head coach Bob Gatiss. "Our teams are very similar. It should be a pretty evenly matched game."

"This is a super big game for us," said Del Mar boss Ron Leimbach. "If we can beat Camden that will give us sole possession of second place." A second place finish would be the best in Del Mar history.

"MISTAKES WILL be the key to the ballgame," added Gatiss. "Whoever takes advantage of their opportunities should win."

The Leigh Longhorns will be trying to end Westmont's perfect record at home this season when they visit the Warriors.

Westmont, 0-5 on the road this season, has a perfect 4-0 record at home heading into Thursday's contest.

Leigh leads the series, which first began in 1964, 8-5, having won last year to end a two year Westmont winning strek.

"Leigh isn't very big but they're scrappy," noted Westmont head coach Don Stagnaro. "They really come to play. They have no real individual stars but they're well coached and are very good fundamentally."

"They play good hard nosed defense, much like the last two teams we've played," said Longhorn head coach Bob Holland. "I think the key to this game is emotional readiness. There's not a whole lot you can do in three days of practice but get the kids emotionally prepared."

"They need a win to finish the season at .500," added Holland. "And we need a win to go 6-4."

If the Longhorns can win it would mark their first winning weason since 1970 when they copped the WVAL championship.

"It's just a matter of getting the kids ready," Holland said.

"We have to keep them from making the big play," noted Stagnaro. "That's the key as far as we're concerned."

After the game, Stagnaro will join Holland for Thanksgiving dinner, as he has done in each of the past two seasons.

"Coming off of last Friday's win we should have some momentum going," said Branham head coach Chuck Maraldo, as he prepared his club for their annual season finale with Prospect.

The Bruins, who beat Prospect last year to capture the league crown, take a 7-2 series lead into their game with the last place and winless Panthers.

"Our kids always look forward to playing on Thanksgiving Day," said Maraldo. "We have the talent to do a good job and beat them. If we're right, we're a good football team. But if we're down, we make too many mistakes."

Braves' rally falls just short of win

THE BLACKFORD Braves waited until the final two periods of the 1977 season to play their best football of the year. But it was a classic case of too little, too late.

"That was the first time we played football all season long, as far as I'm concerned," remarked Blackford head coach Mike Spitzer, after his club had tallied 20 second half points only to fall 21-20 to the Camden Cougars.

"We had the talent this year but not the intensity," said Spitzer. "This team is better than 2-8 (Blackford's record) but we didn't play with the intensity needed to win."

The Braves found themselves trailing 21-0 at the half last Friday before they regrouped to give the Cougars a scare.

"That was the best defensive showing we've ever had out here," Spitzer noted, referring to the Braves' strong second half effort. "The kids were hitting hard. They were causing fumbles and hustling."

All of the Braves' hard hitting and hustle went for naught, however, when a two point conversion pass fell incomplete with just three and a half minutes to go in the game, preserving Camden's precarious one point lead.

The Braves had tried to score the two points on a fake option pass from Brian Fox to Guy Gandenberger, a play that had worked all eight times Blackford had previously used it this season.

"I GUESS we went to the well one too many times," said Spitzer.

The Braves had begun their second half comeback with a 60 yard drive at the start of the third period. Ty Thurston completed the march with a one yard run to paydirt. Quarterback Mike Delapena then threw to Fox for the two point conversion.

Delapena had keyed the drive with a 134 yard pass to Gandenberger while Thurston had contributed runs of 14 and 10 yards.

Later in the stanza Delapena connected with Gandenberger for a 17 yard touchdown to cut Camden's lead to seven points.

Delapena and Gandenberger teammed up again in the fourth period for a four yard touchdown toss that brought the Braves to within one point.

It was Gandenberger's 10th touchdown catch of the season. He wound up with five catches on the day for 73 yards.

"I don't think there's any better wide receiver in the valley," praised Spitzer. "We didn't always get the ball to him when we should have, which was a shame."

Delapena completed 12 of 28 passes on the day for 156 yards.

Thurston led an anemic ground attack with 35 yards on eight carries.

Gary Morton, meanwhile, spearheaded the Blackford defense.

"He was all over the field in the second half," said Spitzer. "He was tremendous."

Other standouts included linebacker Tim Carrasco and tackles Dean Lingbeck and Scott Hall.

The Braves finished the season with a 1-7 record in West Valley Athletic League play and a 2-8 mark overall.

"We lost the tight one's," lamented Spitzer. "We just couldn't pull out the close ones."

Del Mar lowers sights in bid to capture 2nd place

THE DEL MAR Dons have lowered their sights from first place to second heading into Thursday's West Valley Athletic League finale against the Camden Cougars.

The Los Gatos Wildcats ended the Dons' dreams of a WVAL championship last Friday night with a 25-0 romp on the Wildcats' field.

They're a helluva good team," said Del Mar head coach Ron Leimbach in praise of the unbeaten Wildcats, who clinched the league title with their win.

"Their defense just dominated us."

The Dons found it difficult to move the ball against the bigger Wildcats and finished the night with only 100 yards of total offense.

"Our defense played a long, long time and did a good job," noted Leimbach.

The Del Mar boss singled out corner back Scott Evans, linebacker Larry Oreglia and free safety Dave Garcia for their work defensively.

"We just couldn't move the ball offensively," added Leimbach. "We tried every play we had — screens, draws — but we didn't have much success. They basically outmanned us."

The Dons can still finish second in the WVAL with a victory over Camden Thursday at Del Mar. Game time is 11 a.m.

"I'm happy, so far, with the season," said Leimbach. "But we'd really like to win this game (Thursday). That would make it really successful season."

Home run power sparks Barons past Clowns 23-7

HOME RUNS by Randy Armer, Marc Salazar, Rich Sanchez and Dave Salazar paced the Barons to a 23-7 rout of the Clowns last week in Campbell Winter League softball action.

Ron Coleman and Sanchez both ripped triples for the winners while John Salazar roped a pair of doubles. Chipping in with solo doubles were Coleman, Sanchez, M. Salazar and Randy Furman.

Jerry Ruggiero walked none and allowed just nine hits to toss the win. He struck out one.

Harold Patton and Brutus Leon both homered for the Clowns. Mike Areola clubbed a double.

Rick McDowell homered and tripled to pace Atari to a 14-6 upset of Killroy. Jim Fletcher and Jack Dougherty both doubled in the win.

Eugene Breaux scattered six hits and three walks for the victory. He fanned one.

Terry McConville and Herb Dallas both hammered homers for the losers.

The No Names slipped past Bearcat Construction 7-3 behind the pitching of Phil Rush.

Jean Rounds led the No Names' nine-hit attack with a home run.

Rich Kaefer, Jim Spencer and Jim Boyd all lashed doubles for the losers.

The New York Lifers won by forfeit over the Money Changers.
